No. 3.

EXTRACT of a DISPATCH from Lieutenant Governor STIRLING to the Right Honourable Sir GEORGE MURRAY ; dated Perth, Western Australia, 20th January 1830.

ON the 9th of September I had the Honour to announce to you my Arrival here, and the Commencement of this Settlement ; I now beg leave to lay before you the following Information relative to its Progress since that Period, its present Condition, and future Prospects.

As soon as the Difficulty attendant on landing and housing the Establishment was surmounted, I caused an Exploration of the Country immediately in the Neighbourhood of the Port to be made, and Two Towns to be laid out ; one, named Freemantle, at the Entrance of Swan River ; the other, Perth, about Nine Miles higher up, on its Right or Northern Bank. Allotments in these Towns were speedily occupied by the first Settlers, who arrived in August ; and the more diligent among them commenced the Erection of temporary Buildings. On the 1st of October I found it necessary to open a District of Country for Location. In the first instance, I selected for that Purpose the Banks of the Swan River ; and, being urged by further Applications for Land, on the 2d of November I threw open the Country extending between the Sea and the Mountains Fifty Miles Southward from Perth, including the District originally reserved for Mr. Thomas Peel. In these Districts the first Comers found suitable Locations, and, acting under the Impulse of Novelty, there were many who at once established themselves on their Lands, regardless of Danger from the Natives, and of the Difficulty they encountered in removing their Goods from the Coast. This adventurous and laudable Spirit, which it was politic to encourage, I am happy in saying met with no Check ; and single Individuals have traversed the Country freely, at great Distances from the Towns, hitherto without Interruption or Injury.

In the Course of October, November, and December, some Ships and many Settlers came in. Their Arrival before the Country could be properly surveyed occasioned great Inconvenience. Viewing no Evil so great to the Settler as Delay in assigning to him his Land, I was accordingly forced to grant Locations on unsurveyed Lands, and to determine on the Sites of Towns without Experience of their Merits. An Evil still greater than these arose from the Number of early Arrivals on the Coast, hitherto unsurveyed ; in consequence, one Merchant Ship, the "Marquis of Anglesea," by anchoring in an exposed Situation, got on Shore ; and latterly, His Majesty's Ship "Success," in coming in without a Pilot, struck on the Rocks, and has received Damage, not irreparable, I believe, but serious.

The Survey of Cockburn Sound is now, however, complete ; and having made Arrangements for buoying the Channel, and establishing proper Pilots, I hope we shall have no more Accidents of that Description.

Among the Settlers who arrived, there were many indentured Servants, who had been recommended to their Employers by Parish Officers, and whose Habits were of the loosest Description. To control these, and to protect their Masters in their just Rights, as well as to secure the Safety of Persons and Property, I was obliged before the Conclusion of the Year to appoint a Magistracy and a Body of Constables ; the first, from among the most wealthy and prudent of the Settlers ; the latter, including the steady and most respectable Part of the Working Class. To render the Decisions of the Magistrates more formal, I selected a Gentleman bred to the Law, and of moderate Temper, to act as their Chairman, and as Adviser to the Government in Matters of Law. Since these Appointments, I am happy in saying there have been fewer Irregularities : and as the Population of the Settlement is now generally diffused over a large Surface, and as Part have commenced Agricultural Labour,

Drunkenness, and similar Evils, will be less frequent than when the People were congregated in One or Two Towns, with little to do.

The Erection of a decent Place of Worship, the regular Performance of Divine Service, and the Administration of the Sacrament on Christmas Day, were the last Events of the Year deserving of Notice. To the Zeal and Energy of the Venerable Archdeacon Scott, who is still here, on his Passage to England, I owe the Furtherance of these great Objects. As a Conclusion to this summary of the Progress of the Settlement, I submit for your Consideration the following Abstract from the Returns, showing at One View the Point it has attained. For the Details I beg to refer to the accompanying Documents.

ABSTRACT from the RETURNS.

The Explorations which have been effected at the Instance of Government, and by private Individuals, have put us in possession of Knowledge relative to the Coast to the Extent of Seventy Miles Northward from Rottenest, and Ninety Miles to the Southward of it. In that Extent the only Discoveries of Note are, Six Rivers of no great Magnitude, and One Bar Harbour, capable only of receiving Boats. The Land seen on the Coast to the Northward is represented as indifferent; while that to the South is reported to be good. With the Country between the Sea Coast and the Hills, Ten Leagues to the North and South of Perth, we are well acquainted; and Three or Four Parties having severally penetrated the hilly District beyond the first Range, to the Extent of Twenty Miles, we possess some Information relative to its Soil and Products.

It is not necessary to transmit the several Reports which have been addressed to me on these Points, and on the Qualities of the Soil and Water, or the Value of indigenous Productions; these will be best determined when they shall have been tried. The only Document of this Description*, which I consider it necessary at present to lay before you, is the Survey of Cockburn Sound by the Chief Surveyor, Mr. Roe; on its Accuracy the most perfect Reliance may be placed, as it has been effected and lately completed by the most unwearied and skilful Application. I beg to suggest, for the Convenience of Ships coming here, that it should be made public. It will be extended shortly so as to include the adjoining Coast, and I shall then forward full Instructions for Vessels navigating the Seas in the Neighbourhood.

In the meanwhile I am proceeding to have the Passage into Cockburn Sound properly buoyed and beaconed; and I have arranged with a Gentleman resident here to maintain a sufficient Establishment of Pilots and Pilot Boats.

By the Document, No. 1, you will be enabled to estimate the Number and Quality of the Persons who have come to this Settlement, and the Descriptions of Property they have imported. Among the Heads of Families there is a great Majority of highly respectable and independent Persons. In the Working Class there is a great Variety: some Masters have been careful in the Selection of their Servants and Workmen; but the greater Part have either engaged the Outcasts of Parishes, or have brought out Men without Reference to Character; and the Consequence is, great Inconvenience to such Masters, and endless Trouble to the Authorities established here.

* This Survey is now in progress of Publication, under the Authority of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty.

Permission to select Land, according to the Land Regulations heretofore transmitted, has been granted to all whose Property has been valued. Their Names and the Extent of their respective Claims appear in the Document, No. 2. A Note of such Persons as have actually commenced Cultivation is therein contained.

In the Towns of Perth and Freemantle regular Buildings are succeeding to the early temporary Structures. I contemplate the Establishment of Three other Towns, one on the Shore of Cockburn Sound; one about Ten Miles higher than Perth, on the Swan River; and a third on the Murray River, Twenty-five Miles to the Southward. In fact, the Mode of granting Lands in such large Allotments tends to spread a small Community over a large Surface, and to give Existence to Towns with few Inhabitants.

Among so many Settlers there could not be a great Number with Minds and Bodies suited to encounter the Struggles and Distresses of a new Settlement; many, if not all, have accordingly been more or less disappointed on Arrival, either with the State of Things here, or their own Want of Power to surmount the Difficulties pressing around them. This has been experienced in the Beginning by every new Colony, and might have been expected to occur here as well as elsewhere. From this Depression, however, the active and stout-hearted have now recovered; and Ten or Twelve of the leading Men of the Settlement having occupied their Grounds, and having declared themselves fully satisfied with the Quality of the Soil and the Condition of their Cattle, I consider the Undertaking is now safe from the Effects of a general Despondency, which at one Time threatened to defeat the Views of His Majesty's Government in this Quarter.

The live Stock which has been brought here has been in several Instances of the very best Quality, and it will be seen by Document (2.) to be very considerable in Quantity; with very few Exceptions, arising chiefly from Neglect, all kinds have done well. We are now drawing to the Close of the dry Season, and yet the Bullocks and Sheep continue to fatten upon the natural Grasses. Horses from England have not prospered so well, but have maintained themselves without any Food but the native Herbage.

The building of Houses and Boats, the Examination of the Country, the Selection of Land, and the Transport of Goods from the Shore to their Allotments, have not left Settlers much Time to attend to any thing else. The Season during the Three last Months, moreover, has been unfavourable to Agriculture and Gardening, from the hard and dry State of the Ground; but the Time for breaking it up being now arrived, I hope to see farming Operations commence with Vigour.

I am happy to say, with reference to grazing, that there is every Reason to be satisfied with the Result of our Experience up to the present Time.

Fishing has been much and successfully practised. The Rivers and Coasts abound in Fish, and great Supplies of Food have been drawn from that Source.

Many Settlers have employed themselves in the Construction of Boats, for the Conveyance of their Goods on the Rivers. The Number in the Settlement is now very considerable, being not less than Forty.

Such are the various Points by the Exhibition of which I am desirous to acquaint you with the present Condition of the Settlement. In offering them, I have confined myself to a Representation of Facts; but as I now propose to consider the Prospects of the Country, I beg to premise, that the following Statements contain Matters of Speculation rather than of Certainty.

The Qualities of the Territory, to which the best informed Persons attend in forming an Opinion of its future Prospects, are, its Climate and Soil, its Position for Trade, and the Products of the Sea in its Vicinity.

Our Experience of its Climate extends throughout the Circle of the Year, with the Exception of the Month of February. That it is favourable to Health in an uncommon Degree is the undoubting Persuasion of every one with whom I have spoken. In the District we now inhabit, the Workmen during the last Two Months have not been able to work in the Sun between Ten and Three o'Clock, but Exertion at other Times produces no consequent Lassitude; and, with the Exception of Ten or Eleven Days, the Summer Heat has been tempered by Southern Breezes, and thereby rendered very agreeable. Since the First of November we have had no Rain in the lower Country; but I think Rains have fallen occasionally in the Hills during the last Fortnight, and I expect a Share of them on the Coast before the Middle of February. This Drought of Three or Four Months fortunately occurs at the Season proper for Harvest; it is, however, too long for the Purposes of Pasturage, particularly in this District, as the Grasses and Plants are much injured by the great and glowing Heat of the Sun. The Colony may be extended Three Degrees to the Southward, and I think the future Arrangements will probably be, that the best Districts for Pasturage and Wheat Tillage will be the more southerly; while Maize, Olives, Vines, and other similar Products will be cultivated in this Parallel.

With reference to the Soil of this Territory I cannot offer a sound Opinion; we at present are acquainted with a very small Portion of it; we still less know how far Climate may modify the productive Power of Soils, and indeed have had as yet no Experience of their Qualities. The most skilful Farmers from England profess themselves at a Loss to form a Judgment here; as Processes in Vegetation are going forward before their Eyes, even on mere Sands, which are wholly irreconcilable to their pre-existing Notions and Modes of judging. I think I am safe, however, in stating, that the sandy Soils on the Coast produce a shrubby Herbage on which Horned Cattle, Horses, and Sheep have lived now throughout the greatest Part of the Year; that there is between the Hills and the Sea a Breadth of Red loamy Soil, on which Grain and Grasses may be produced; that the Banks of the Rivers, and numerous Streams, offer the richest alluvial Loam; and that the Hills themselves, although occasionally very rugged, are capable of becoming good Sheep Pasture, as the Soil on their Sides, where it exists at all, is invariably excellent, resting on Granite and Whinstone. I am more cautious on this Subject, because there have been Opinions given by Individuals who have seen only the Sea Beach, and have stated broadly that there is no good Soil. In the Estimate I have offered I have therefore confined myself to Points undisputed by those who have examined the Country.

Those Persons in the Settlement who direct their Attention to the Produce of the Soil may be divided into Two Classes, following either Pasturage or Tillage. I cannot at present form an Estimate of the Number of Cattle, Horses, and Sheep which may be kept on an Average of any given Extent of Land. The Country as it is will certainly sustain a considerable Number, as there is both Food and Water at the present Season, the driest and worst of the Year.

This Fact is important in the highest Degree; for the Power of supporting such Animals without artificial Food will secure not only a Profit to their Owners, but a Supply hereafter of necessary Food to the Settlement. We have already here several thorough-bred Horses; the Profit on these, in the Case of any one Individual, will be more precarious than on Sheep; of the latter, we have small Flocks from the well-known Breeds of Messrs. Henty, Trimmer, and Tower, and to their Increase and future Profit I think we may look with Confidence, as their Proprietors here are fully satisfied with their Progress heretofore. I consider Pasturage as the Source whence the greatest Returns will be made, particularly when the Colony shall extend itself Two or Three Degrees of Latitude further to the Southward.

The Views of those who look to Tillage are as yet confined to gardening and farming for their own Consumption. I shall follow the judicious and enlightened Opinion of Mr. Archdeacon Scott, in attracting to this Mode of Production

Production those only who have no Capital, or who cannot be employed in grazing; as the Cheapness with which Grain is raised in the Colonies around us will prevent the Production of it at a Rate lower than it may be imported at. There are, however, some Articles on the Produce of which it is supposed great Profits may be made; viz.

Very superior Flax and a Species of Hemp grow spontaneously, and may be cultivated perhaps to Advantage; Timber is abundant, and may be profitably sent to Market; Vines, Olives, Figs, Opium, and Tobacco are looked to as future Sources of Exports; but these, as well as many more such Articles, must await the Time when the present Subsistence and Comfort of the Settlers shall be provided for, and a Stock of the Necessaries of Life accumulated.

The Facilities which are offered here for curing Fish for the Mauritius, and for carrying on a Whale Fishery, have not escaped the Attention of some of the Settlers; even thus early I have had Applications from several Parties, but judging the Time not arrived, I have not hastened by particular Encouragement such Establishments. It is believed that there is Abundance of Fish to make a Fishery profitable, and the Coast is visited between the Months of May and November by a Multitude of Whales; it will be my Object to foster these Fisheries, in Boats and small Vessels drawing their Maintenance from these Shores.

The Position which this Settlement occupies, with reference to the Trade of these Seas, has been in some Measure shown by the Arrival of Ships from various Parts of the World; some of these, from England, have landed all their Cargo here, but the greater Part have called without Inconvenience, and have disposed of Part of their Passengers and Cargo here, and have then proceeded on their Routes; Two Vessels have gone from this to the Malay Islands, but only One has come thence. I understand there are Four small Vessels intended to be employed in that and other Lines of Trade, diverging from this as a Centre; and it will then be determined whether the Idea is correct, which supposes this a good Position from which to dispose of British Manufactures among the Easternmost of the Malay Islands.

These are the Prospects which engage the Minds of those Persons here who have overcome the Anxieties of their first Establishment in a new Land. But, in holding out to your Notice these Prospects, which are contemplated by those whose Minds are in a healthy State, I must not lead you to believe that such a favourable View of Things is entertained by all here. The greater Part, incapable of succeeding in England, are not likely to prosper here to the Extent of their groundless and inconsiderate Expectations. Many of the Settlers who have come should never have left a safe and tranquil State of Life; and if it be possible to discourage one Set of People and to encourage another, I would earnestly request that for a few Years the helpless and inefficient may be kept from the Settlement, while to the active, industrious, and intelligent there may be assured with Confidence a fair Reward for their Labours. This Country may at no distant Period absorb, with Advantage to Great Britain and herself, an immense Migration of Persons; any great Portion of which, if sent forward too soon, will ruin her Prospects and their own.
