

THE COFFEE POT SLATED.

The Coffee Pot what a beautiful spot.
The costs aren't exorbitant there.
The crowd there are snobs of them selves think a lot.

You walk in and there's always a chair.
" " " "

In no time at all you are served and away,
but you stay for the music has charm.
The crowd are all good and happy and gay.
The service is quick but yet calm.
" " " "

I wondered one day just for what we did pay?
Nescafé' the casual re-mark.

This story I still can't believe to this day;
I think it dates back to the Ark.
" " " "

Their saving on lighting in this little spot.
You can't see the way to the door.
You know better places you think of them not,
With the Law their no longer at war.
" " " "

I'll just add some more to the text of this

You can make out from this what I mean,^{verse,}
The manⁿers are perfect, I've never heard curse.
You'll know what I mean if you've been.

Some Dutch people own this they have a good way,
Of keeping themselves with full purse.
Your thinking of leaving? please don't run away,
It just must improve, for it couldn't get worse!

John Malloch